

TITAN TRADITION

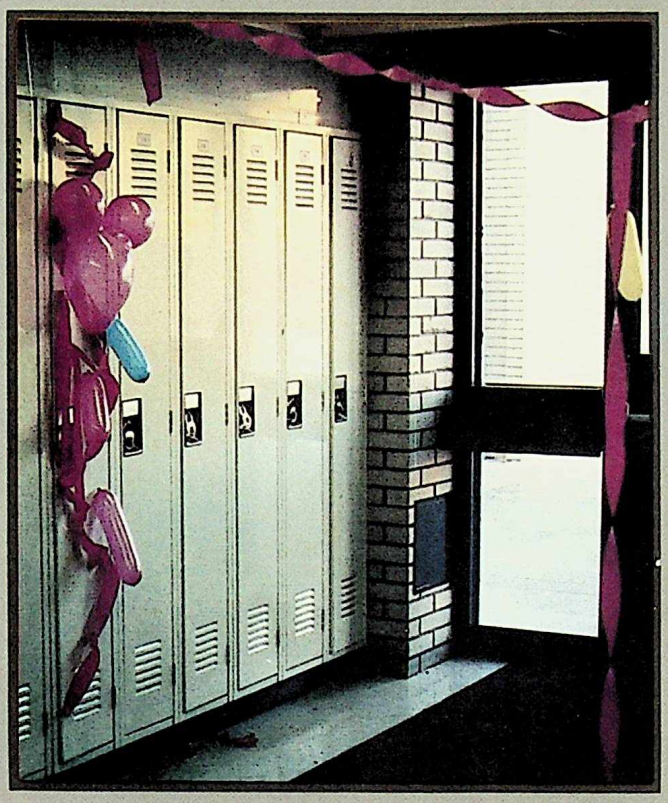

Harry Ainlay, one of the first composite high schools in Edmonton, was named after the late Harry Dean Ainlay. Mr. Ainlay was extremely active in serving the city since his arrival almost seventy years ago. His teaching career in Edmonton spanned thirty-one years during which he taught at Queen Alexandra School, Garneau and Strathcona High Schools. During his year as the president of the Alberta Teacher's Alliance, he was involved in many areas such as a new School Act, pensions; and issues such as professional discipline and province wide educational research.

Interested and active, too, in public service, Mr. Ainlay served as an alderman since 1932 and as mayor from 1945 to 1949. Upon his retirement in 1949, he moved to Haney, B.C.

The Names Commission honored Mr. Ainlay, sometime after he moved, by naming our school after him. Mr. Ainlay and his wife continued to attend many school functions such as the official opening, Grad exercises in 1967, and the presentation of the Harry Ainlay trophy to the outstanding student, until his death on March 12, 1970.

Since the school's first inception almost sixteen years ago, many changes have appeared in the school; not only in numbers but also in lifestyle. In 1966, the school started with a student population of 1118 and a teaching staff of fifty-eight, while today the number reads more than 2186 students and almost a hundred teachers. There are changes in attitude, behavior, and structural design as well during the time the school opened and present day.

Since the school first opened, there have been five principals. Our first principal was Mr. S.G. Deane from 1966-1967. Then there was Mr. W.O. McLean from 1967-1970. Our third principal was Mr. I.M. Nicoll from 1970-1972. Mr. M.F. Smeltzer was our fourth principal from 1972-1976. Now, as we all know, it's Mr. N.A. Rebryna.

Spirit Week

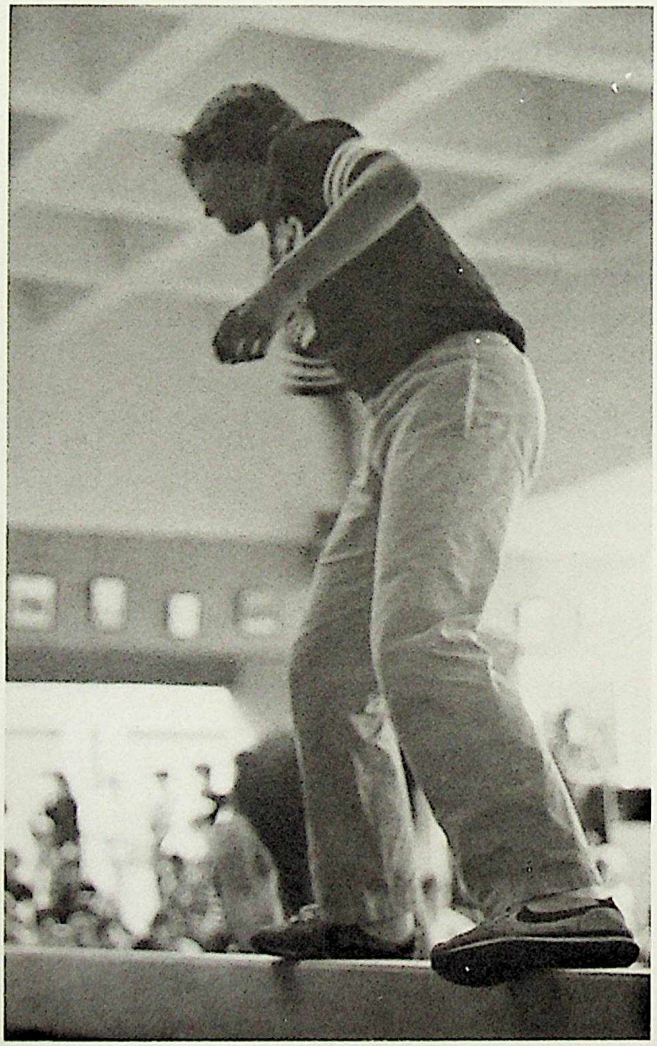

This year's Spirit Week started off with the perennial favorite "The Greatest Days of Your Life ... So Far". With the adrenalin from the film still running high, students decided to floor paper the rotunda in a lovely shade of pale white toilet paper. They scrambled around, frantically unwinding the stuff, and endeavored to mummify friends, acquaintances, and the occasional unwary bystander. On Friday, Ainlayites - mature, sensible people on the whole - regressed to a more infantile stage of life and had a pillow fight, bopping the stuffing out of each other. That night, these students let loose in a dance that featured "Twenty Feet". The evidence that everybody had a great time was illustrated by all the jumping, twisting and writhering that took place in the gym.

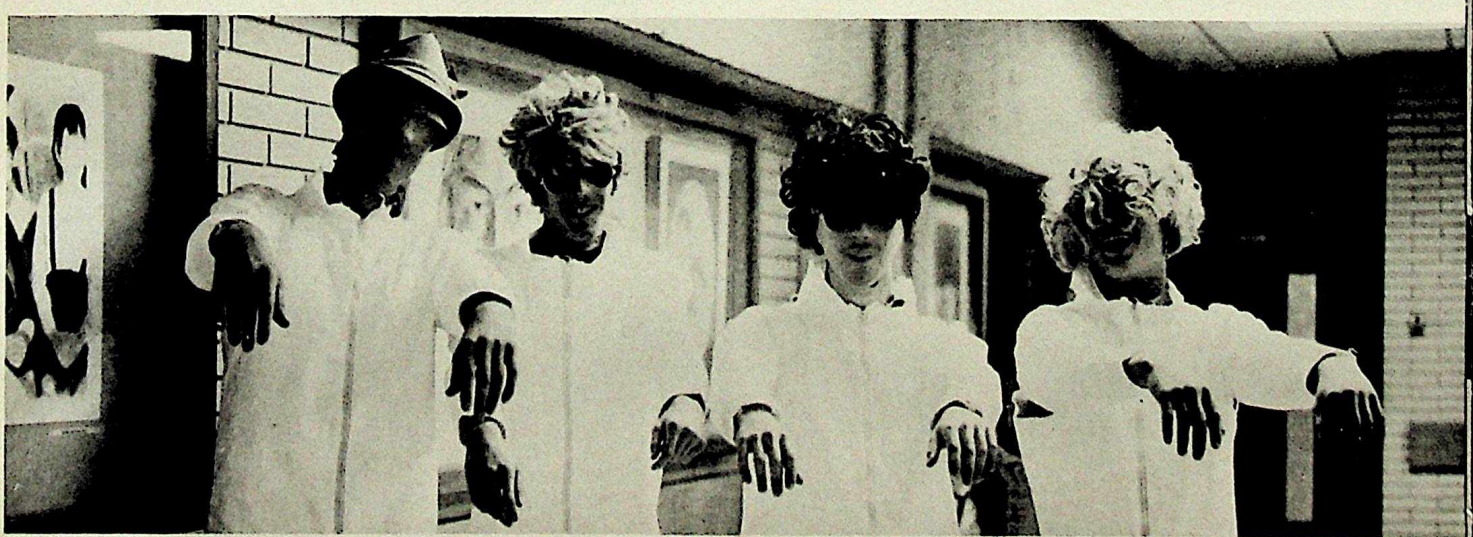

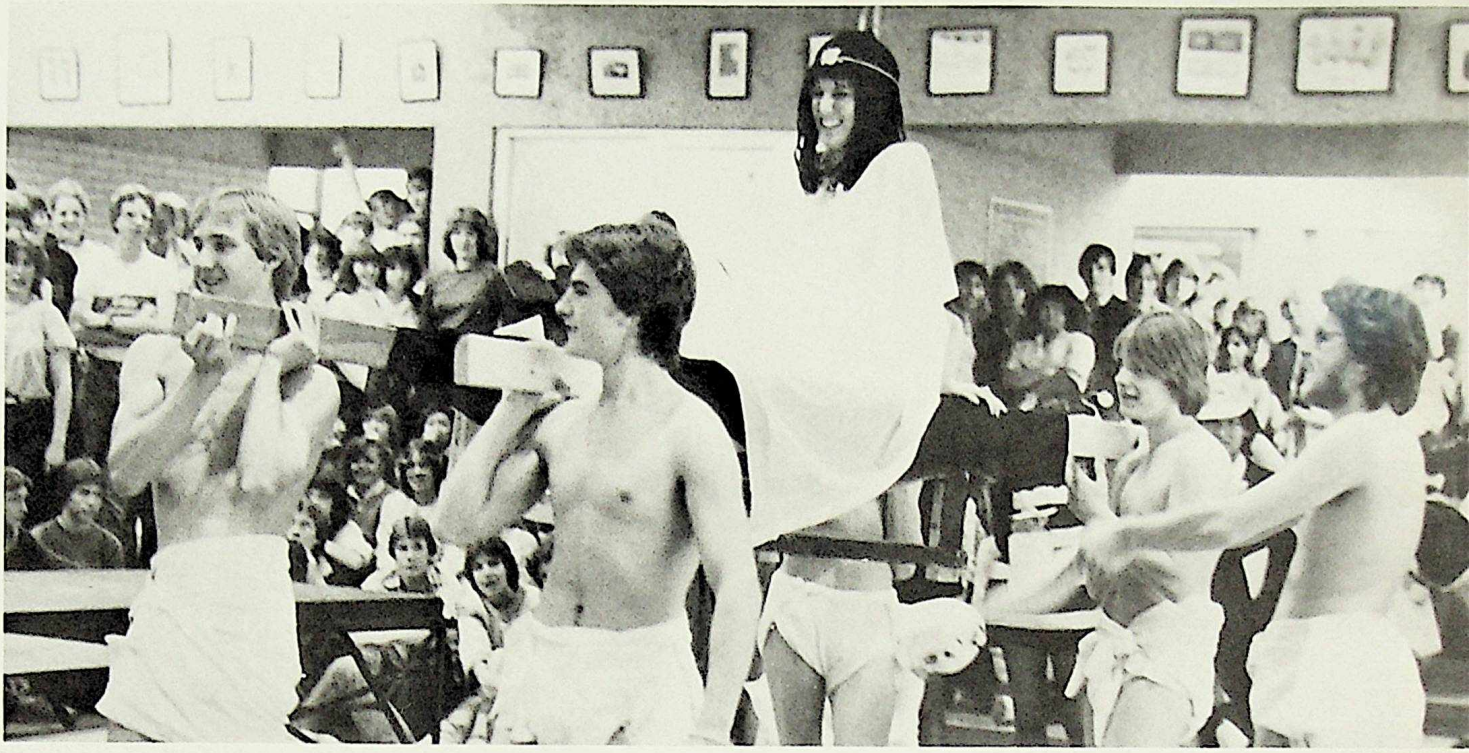

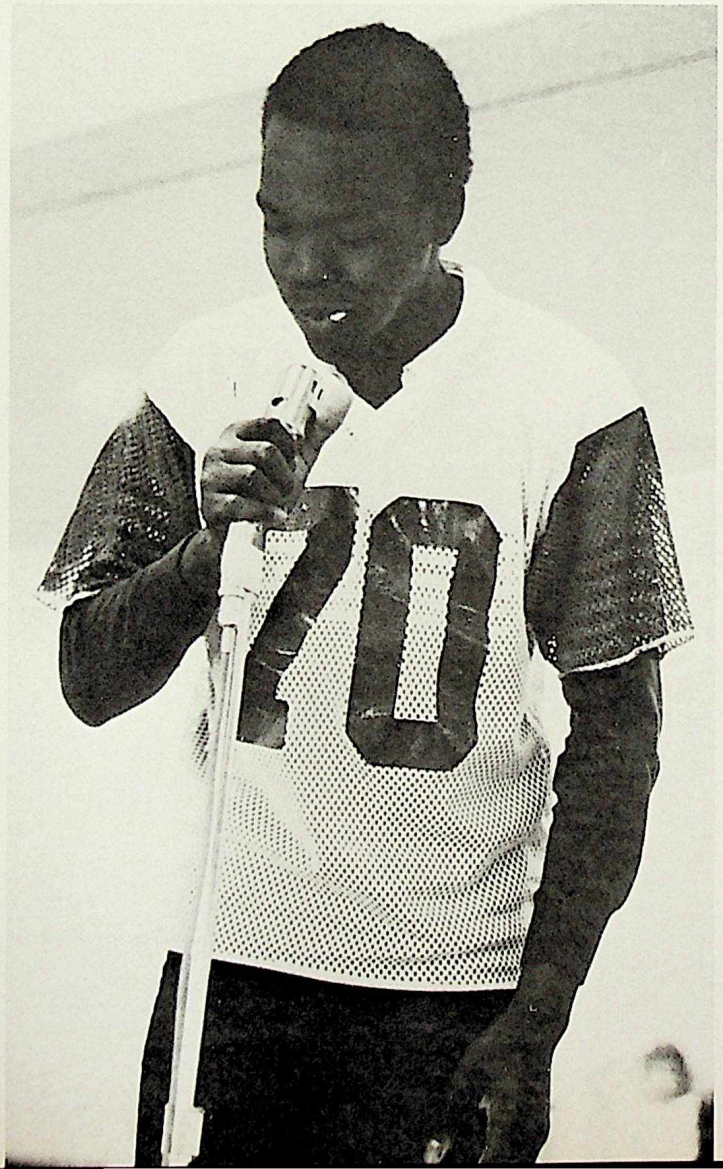

Halloween Week

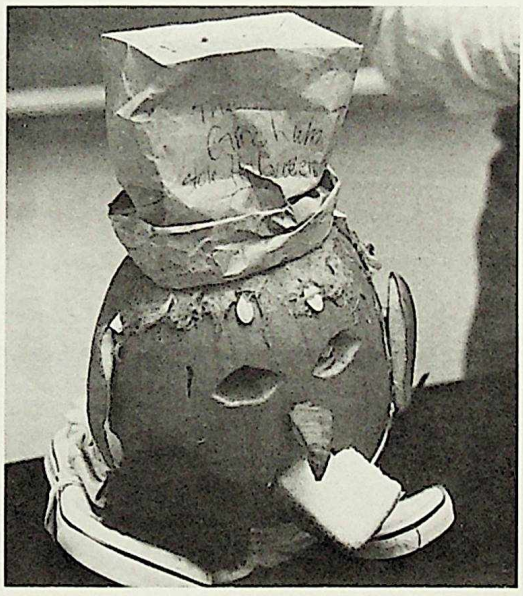

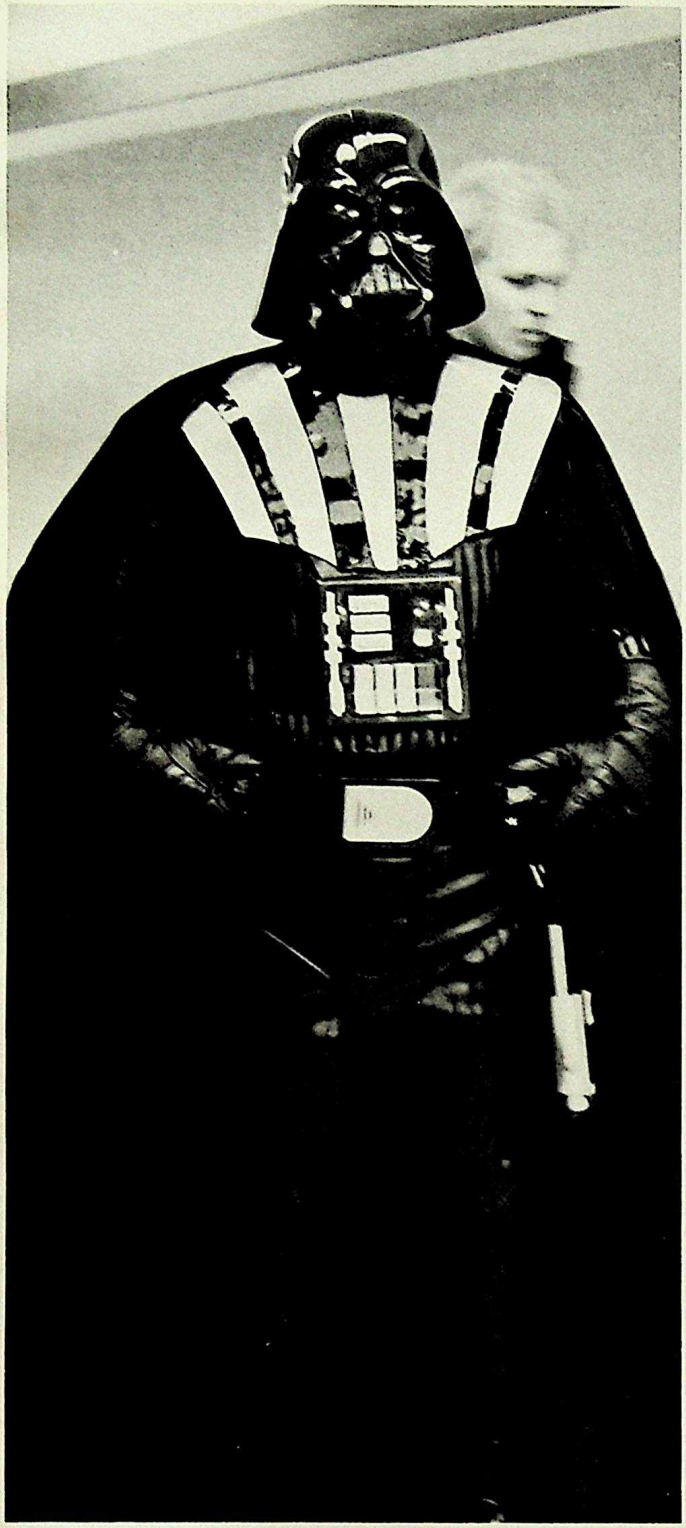

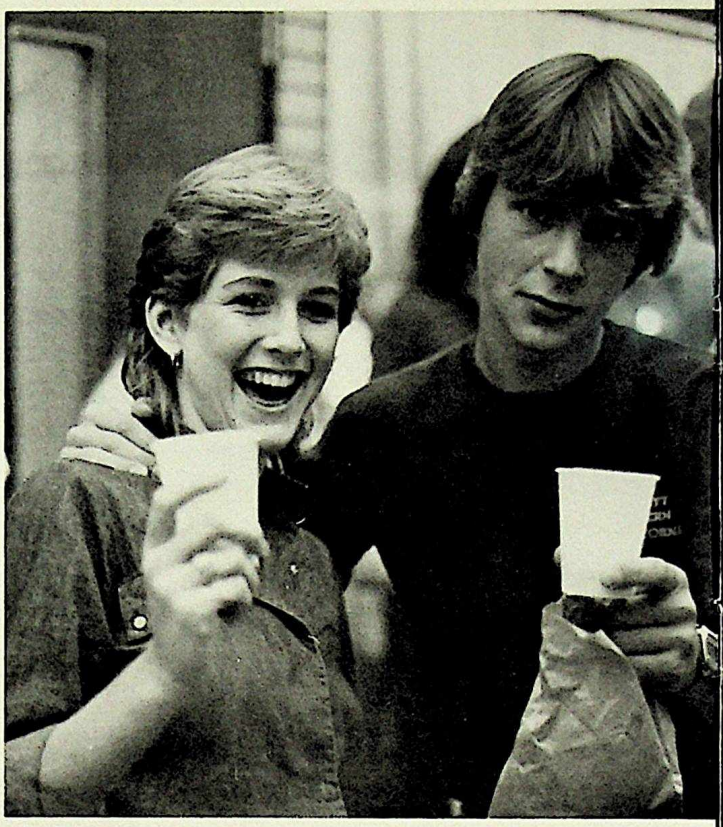

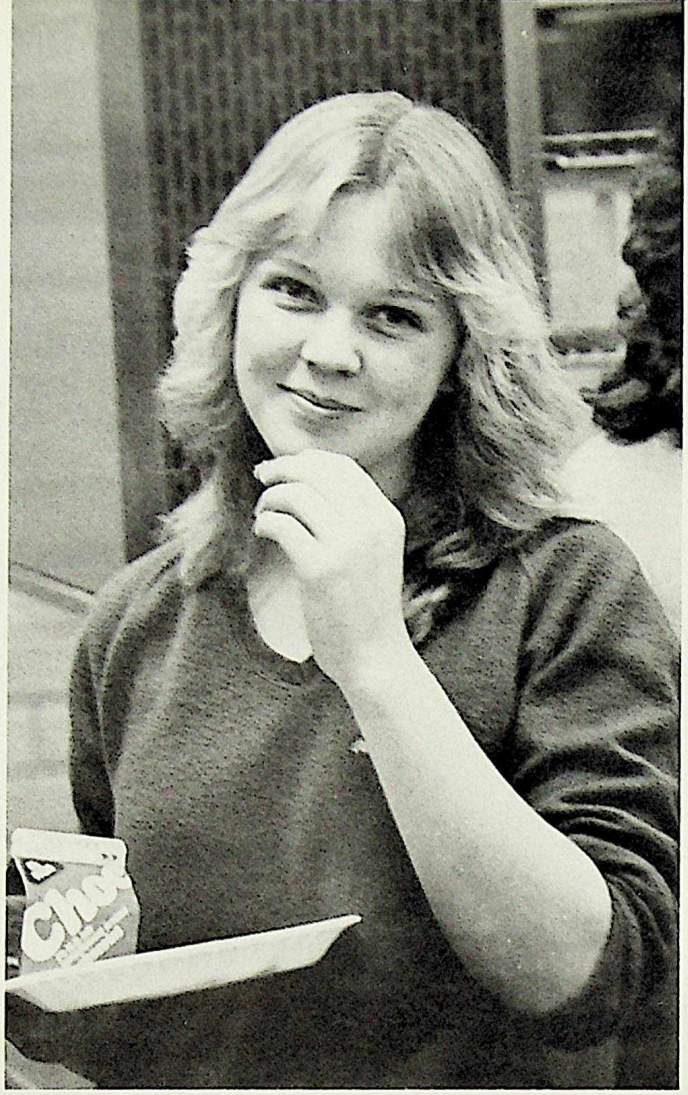

Monday of this spooky week took off at lunch with a pumpkin carving contest. Contestants sprawled around the rotunda floor, hacking up their pumpkins into various hideous, grotesque expressions (reminding us at times of some of our teachers). The second big event of the day, apple bobbing, ended with a big splash as some students ended up with more water on them than in the tub. And woe to the poor student who was ritually immersed. Tuesday flushed out all the hungry students with the irresistible lure of a pie-eating contest and a kool-aid cauldron. The last day was busy, busy, busy. First the marshmallow stuffing contest which totally grossed everyone out of eating their lunch. Then came the Haunted House which was intended to look scary, but reminded merely everyone of their messy rooms. Then there was the costume contest and the judges had a hard time figuring out who was actually dressed up.

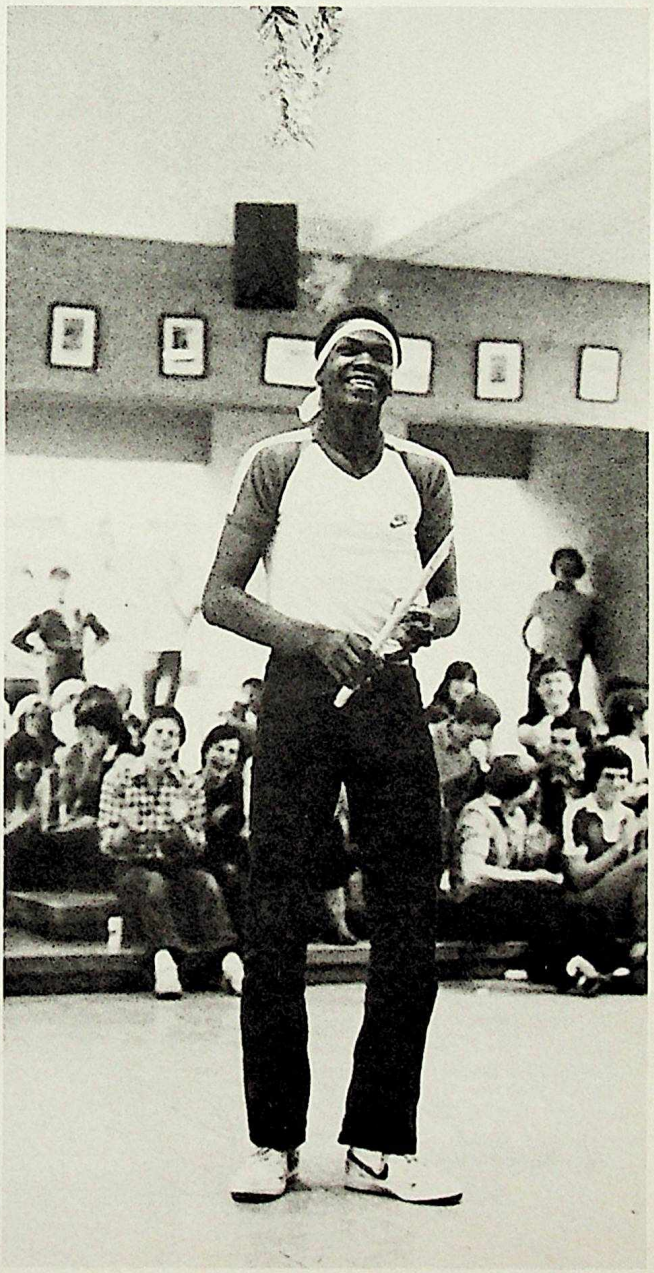

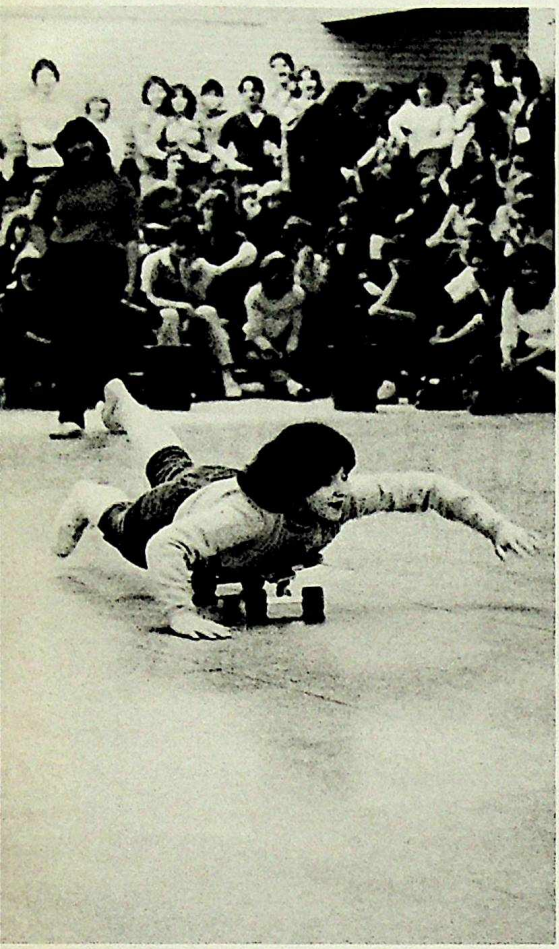

Christmas Week

Christmas Week was a great opportunity for students to get involved, have some fun, and prepare in style for the holiday season. Starting off, there was the pinata contest. It was filled with candy and small change, and the idea of the contest was to break it open with a stick and blindfolded. Then there was carol singing in the rotunda with everybody cheerfully singing all the various old x-mas favorites. The pancake breakfast was a hit too, as students and teachers gorged on pancakes and sausages. To crown off a good week, there was the chance for the shy guys and gals to express themselves by giving humongous candy canes to their sweethearts.

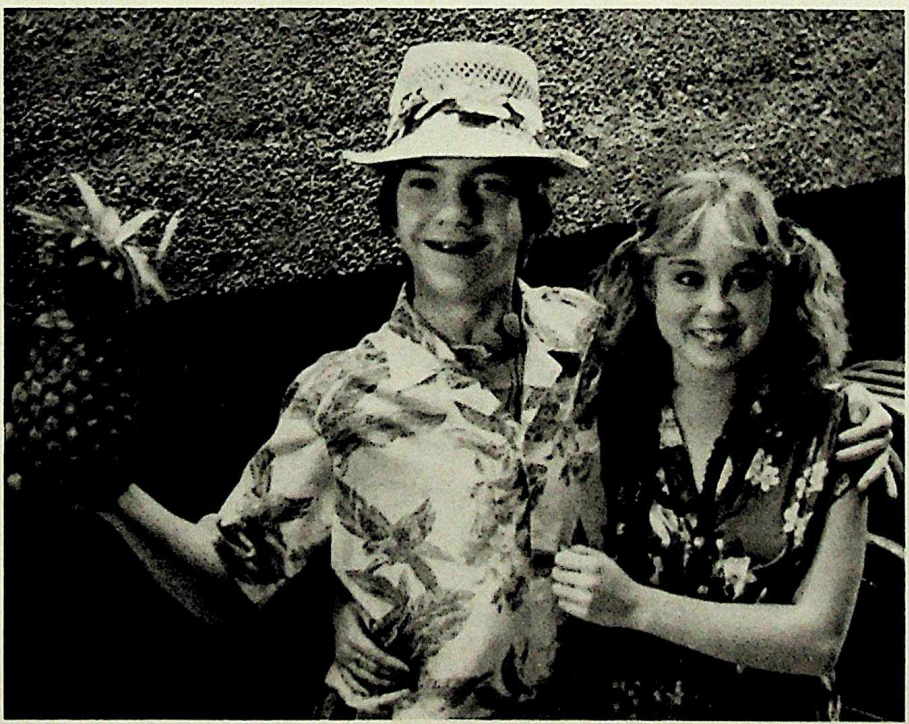

Tropical Week

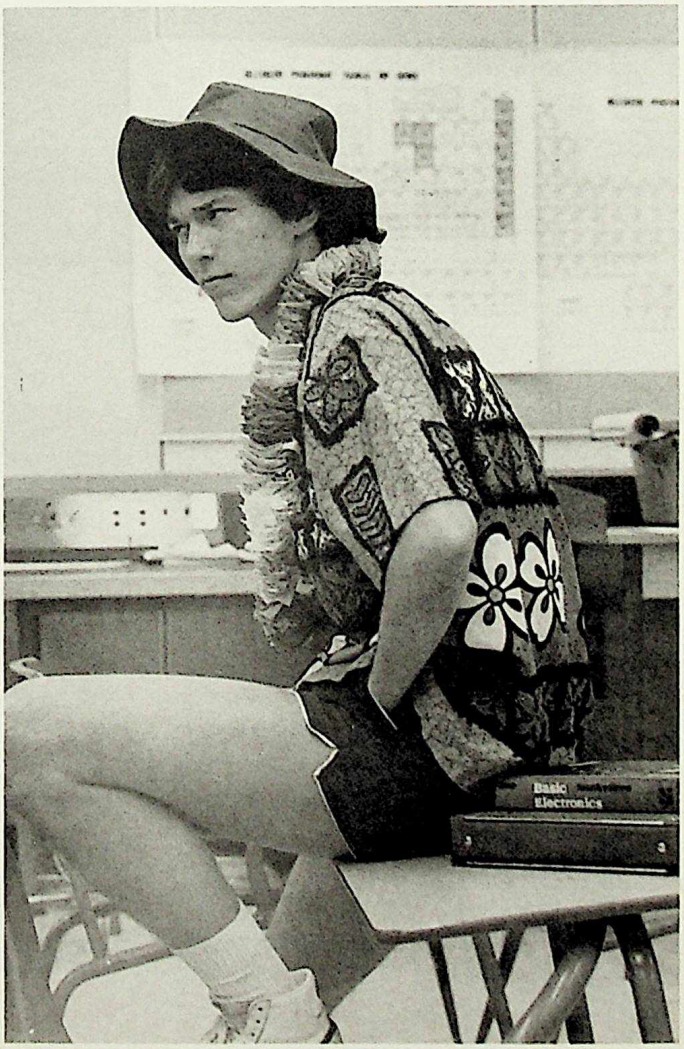

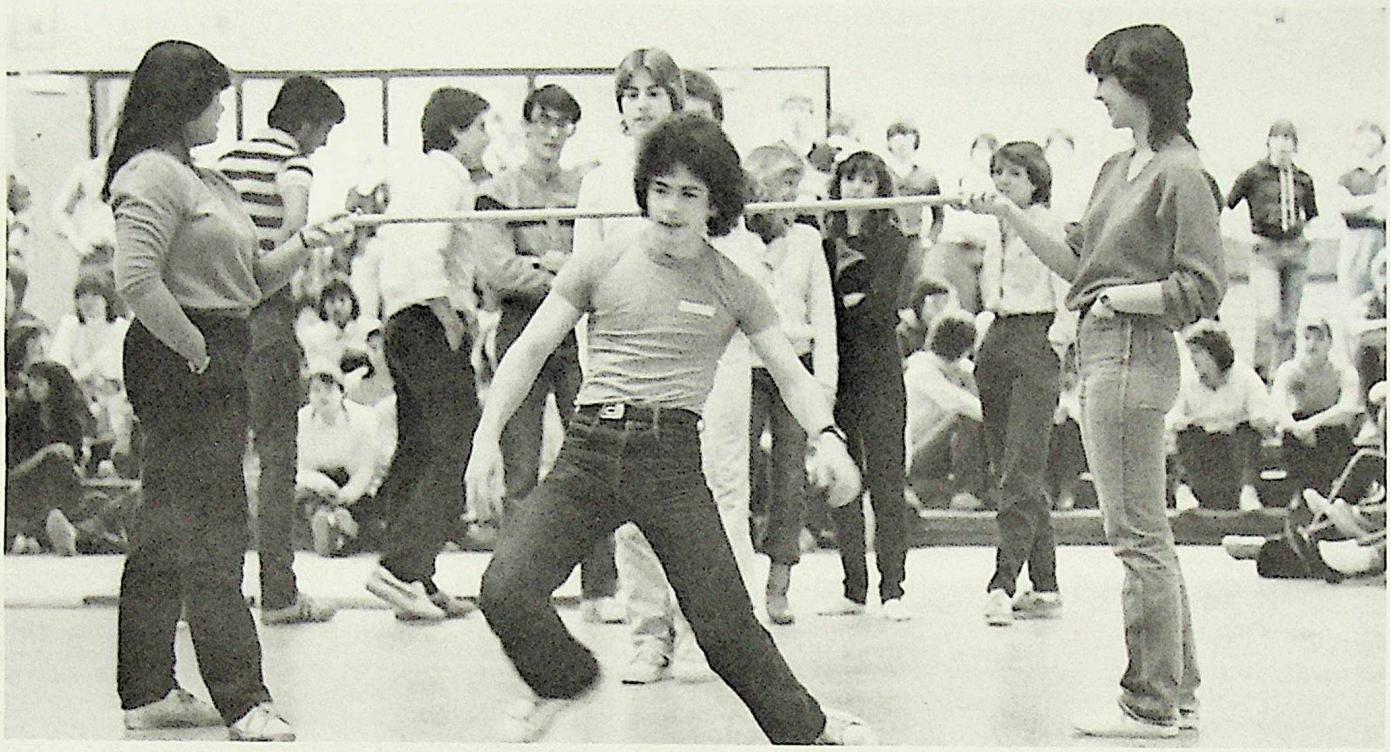

March 7th to the 11th found Ainlay students basking in the unseasonable warmth of Tropical Week. The warmer climate was due to the fact that the thermostats were turned up and in part to the tiny outfits that everybody wore or rather almost wore. Bikinis and shorts were the order of the day and there was even an eccentric soul who dazzled everybody with her grass skirt. The banana eating contest was held in the rotunda and various students were encouraged to stuff as much of the soft, squishy bananas into their gaping mouths. This, of course, determined which of Ainlay's students have apelike leanings. On Thursday, the double duo of the limbo contest and the skateboard relay took place. Students, big and small, wriggled and jiggled their merry way in the limbo contest, risking limbs and not to mention their jeans. The relay was an exciting fast-paced event with plenty of spills. Tropical Week ended with the Mr. Legs' Contest which was enthusiastically cheered and a dance featuring the Cosmetics.

Principal's Message

We have an almost irresistible urge to leaf through yearbooks so that we can recall the many friends, the record activities, the memorable events, and the amusing trivia that make up an important year of our lives. Although we live in the present we are products of our past and yearbooks provide a pleasant stroll along a path we have already travelled to arrive at where we already are.

These excursions are not always pleasant, for often painful memories flood in about misunderstandings, unpleasant incidents, missed opportunities, and cherished goals that we did not achieve. Life is not always pleasant but unfortunately we can often learn as much from failure as from success. The wheel of life has segments of both pleasure and pain and it is how we react to its vagaries that cause our growth as humans.

This may well be that last formal yearbook that many of you graduates will ever receive. But even if that is so you still can grow effectively in character and knowledge if you make it a practice to formulate your own "mental yearbooks" in order that you periodically and systematically review, appreciate, and adjust your lives to the current realities in which you will find yourselves.

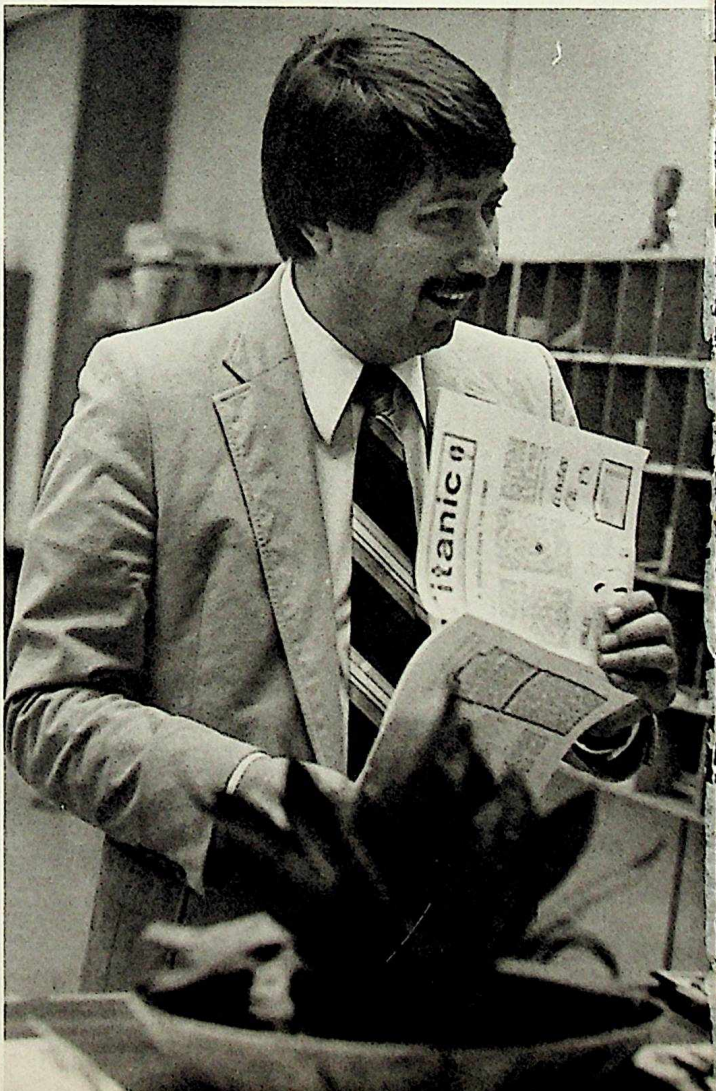

In fact this school will have taught a great deal, if in addition to the regular curriculum, we manage to instill in our graduates the invaluable practice of systematic reflection and self-examination of the past in order to arrive at a better future.

TIME

It never stops,
No it never ends,
Seeing the death of their favorite friends.
God only knows how they felt that night,
Seeing their faces in every light.

He says it's like picking a flower or two,
If picked too early it bothers you.
After they're gone another one grows,
Covered in mud from their head to their toes.

You try to forget it, you try to go on,
Singing and playing his favorite song.
Remembering things that she used to say,
Over and over every day.

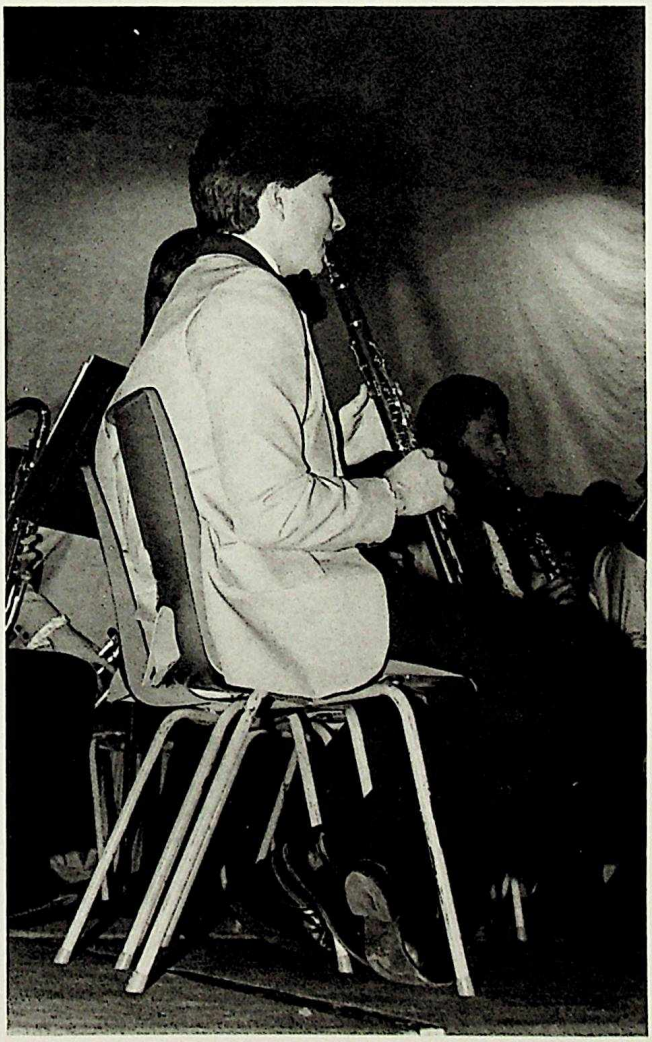

Time will give your mind a rest,
Meanwhile give it your very best.
They probably thank you for all that you've done,
Later they'll thank you over the sun.

Agamemnon

Agamemnon, designed and directed by Darren O'Donnell, is a modern adaptation by Steven Berkoff of the original tragedy by Aeschylus.

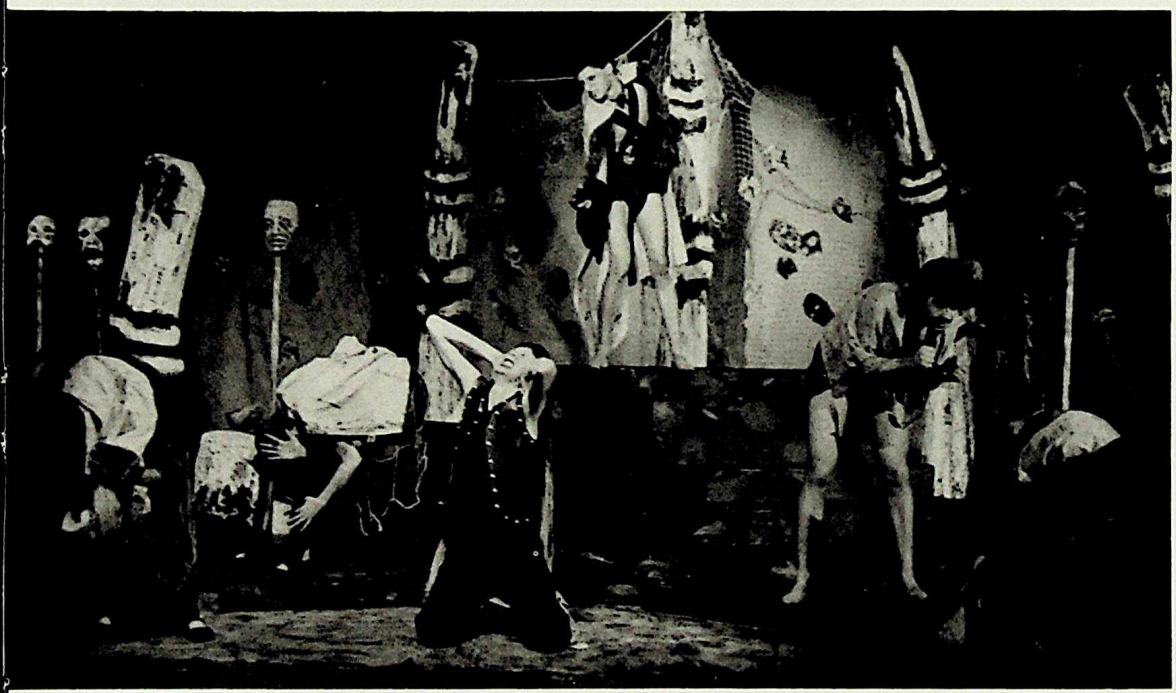

The cast was comprised of Kevin Beatty, Diana Dahlsteadt, Andrew Necready, Jim Anderson, Siobhain O'Reilly, and Tracey Sansom.

Agamemnon was chosen to represent Edmonton in the provincial festival and Darren O'Donnell, Kevin Beatty, Diana Dahlsteadt, Jim Anderson and Colleen Palko, as stage manager, all won scholarships totalling $1000.00.

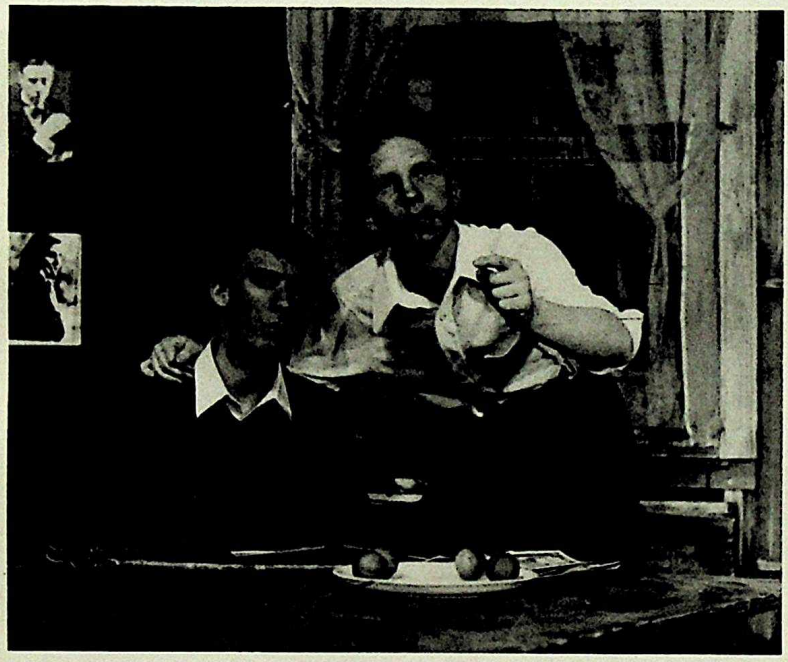

"Sammi"

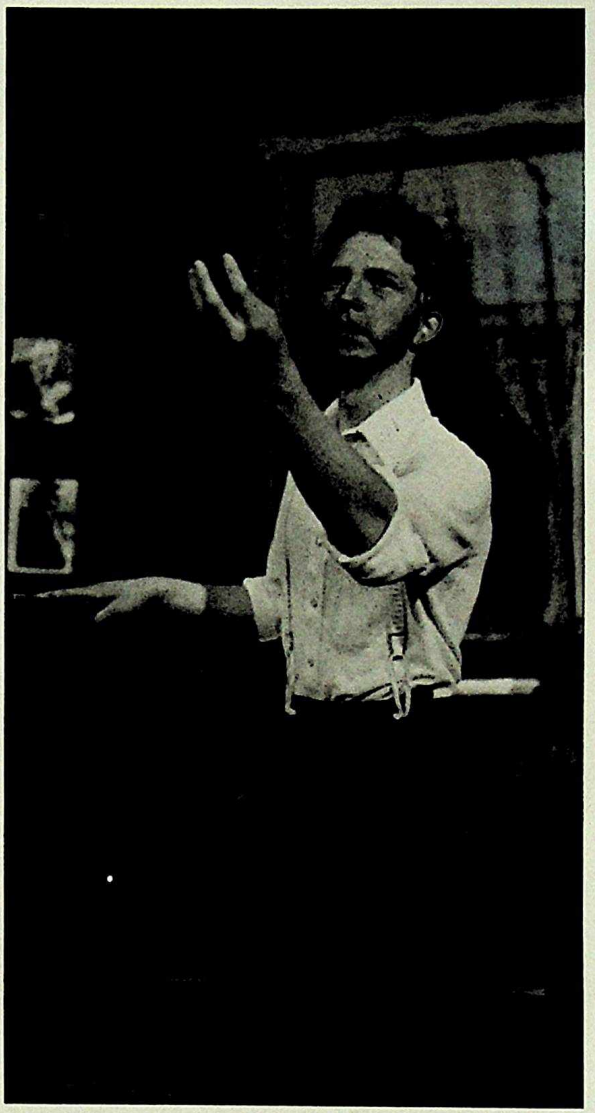

By Ernest A. Joselovitz
Directed and designed by Andrew Dolha

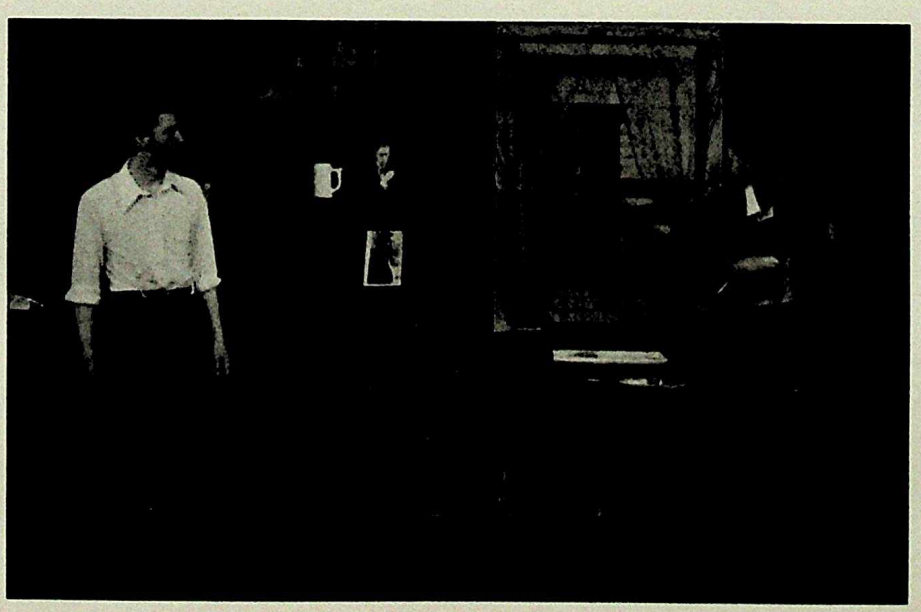

"An elderly man living on the edge of society relives painful memories from his past"

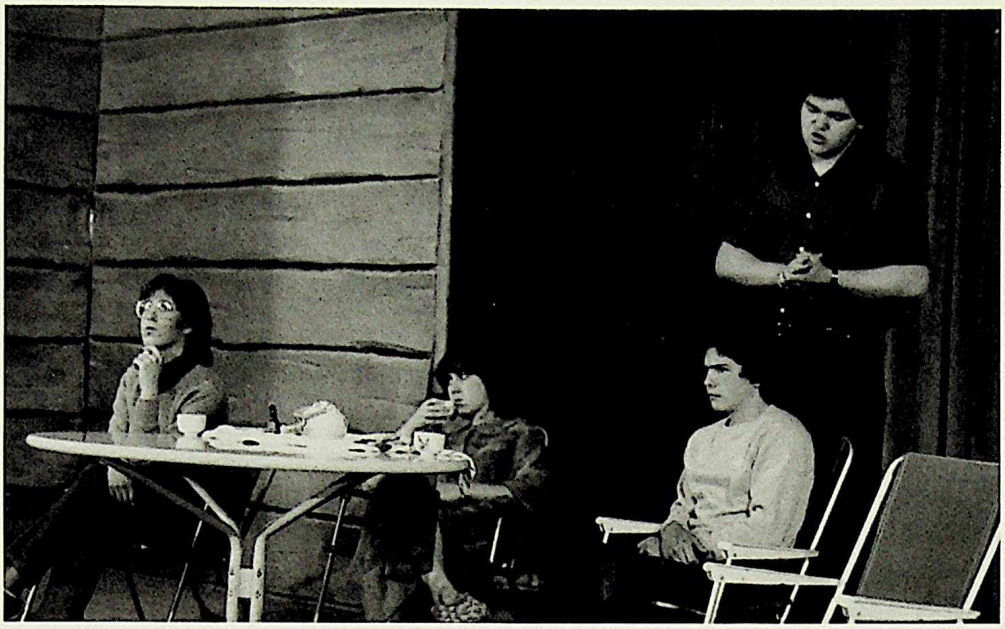

CAST
David Hughes - Visitor/David Kletchik
Jim Warrack - Sammi Kletchik

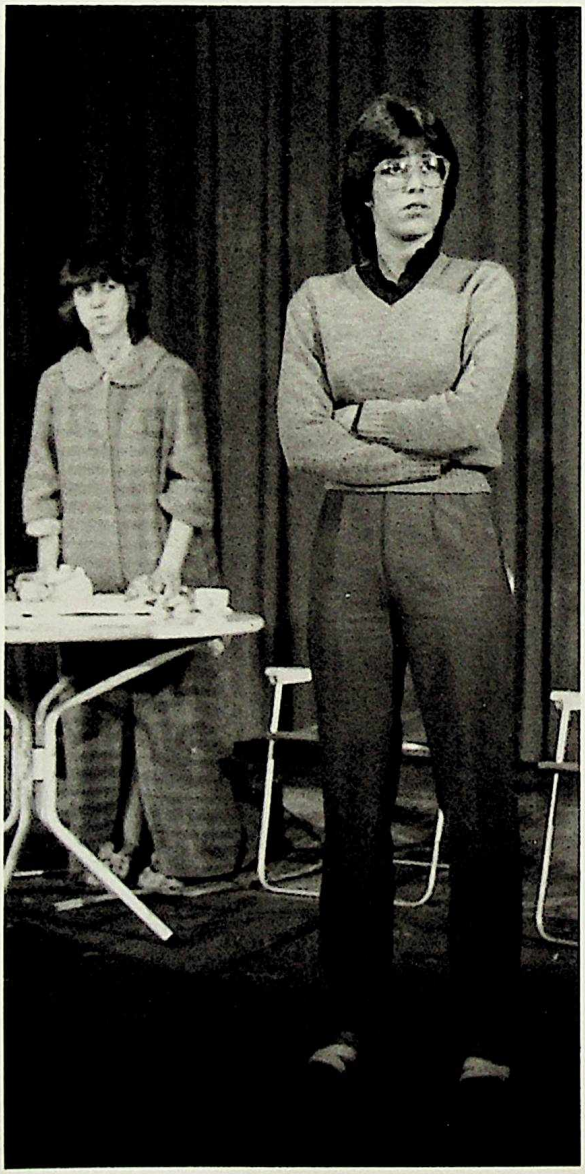

This is one of two plays which represented Harry Ainlay in the city festival.

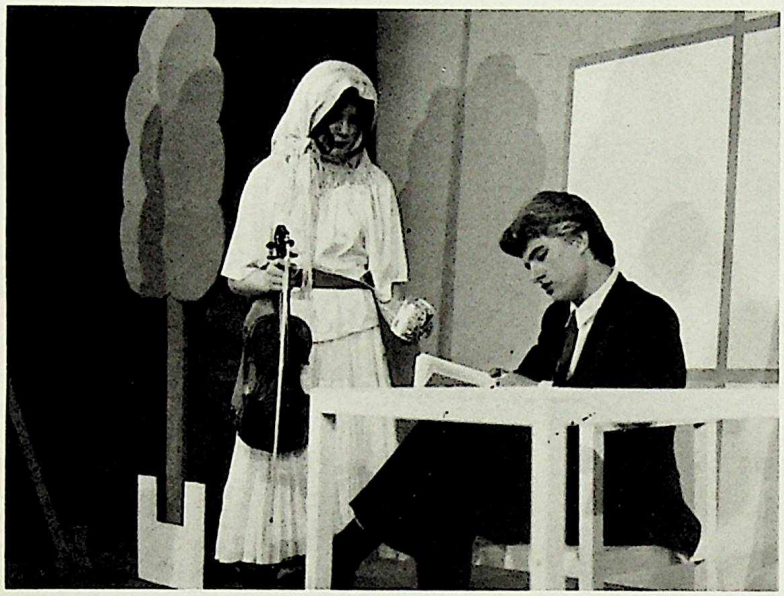

Thus I Refute Beelzy ...

A short story written by John Collier, was adapted, directed, and designed by Tracey Reynolds. This work in progress displays a young boy (played by Glen Law) indulged in his escaping dream world involving his friend Mr. Beelzy. He then becomes confronted with the materialistic realism of life when his father and mother (played by Kelly Simpson and Joan Holmstrom) disillusion him with their own ideas. Betty, a family friend and witness to the boy's situation is played by Kendra Gray.

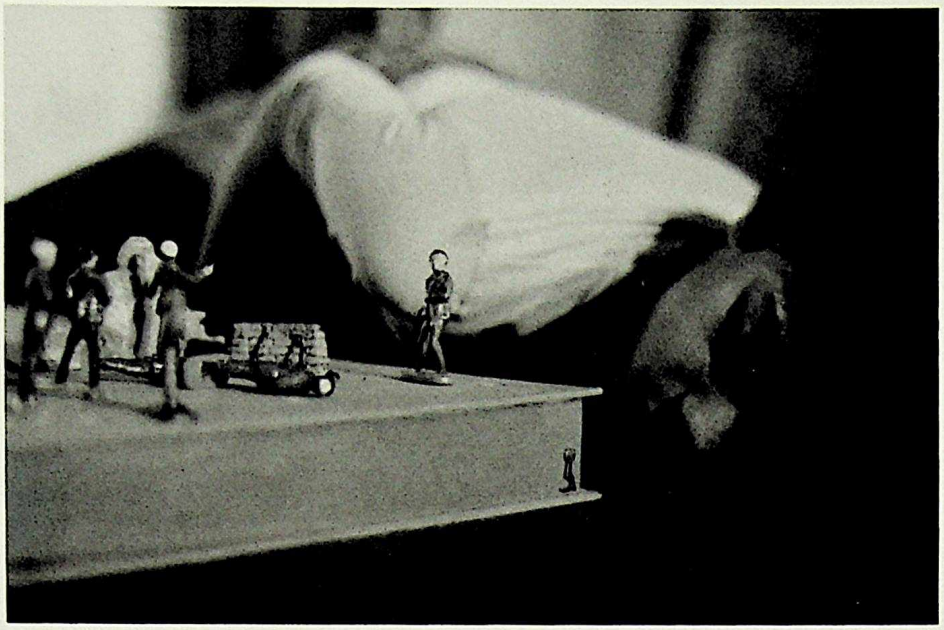

The Man with the Flower in His Mouth

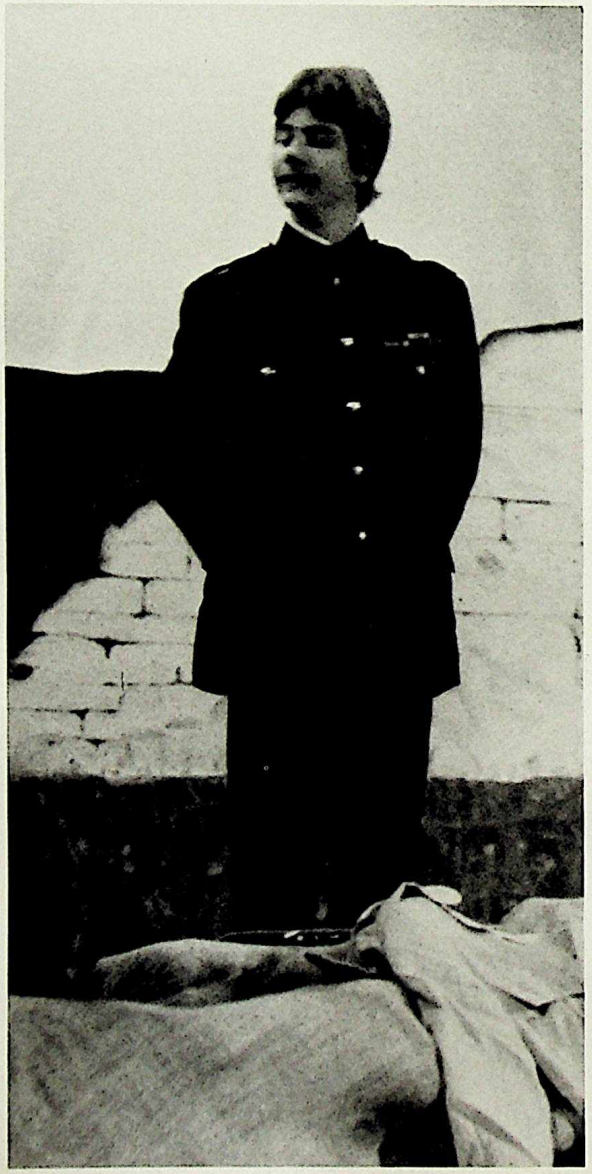

By Luigi Pirandello, designed and directed by Lorna Fisher, is the story of a man dying of cancer. The man, played by Stephen Abbott, confronts a commuter, Dean Mayner, in a train station in Italy. The man jolts the commuter out of his ignorance with seemingly crazy stories and then confessing the truth about his disease.

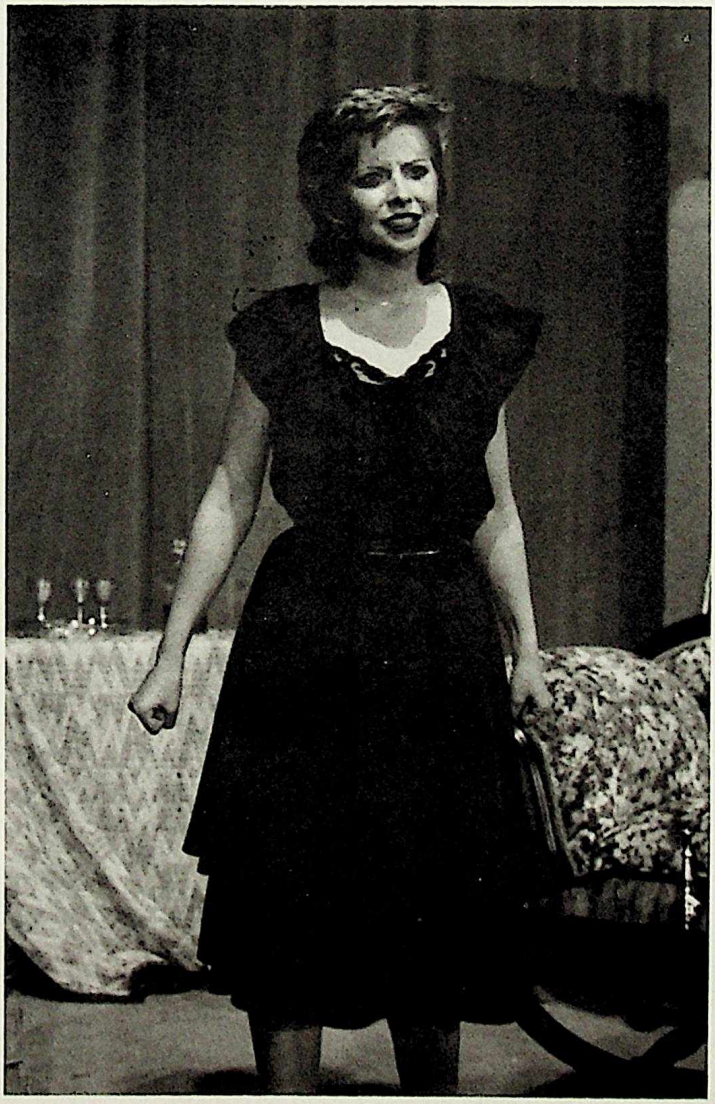

Picnic on the Battlefield

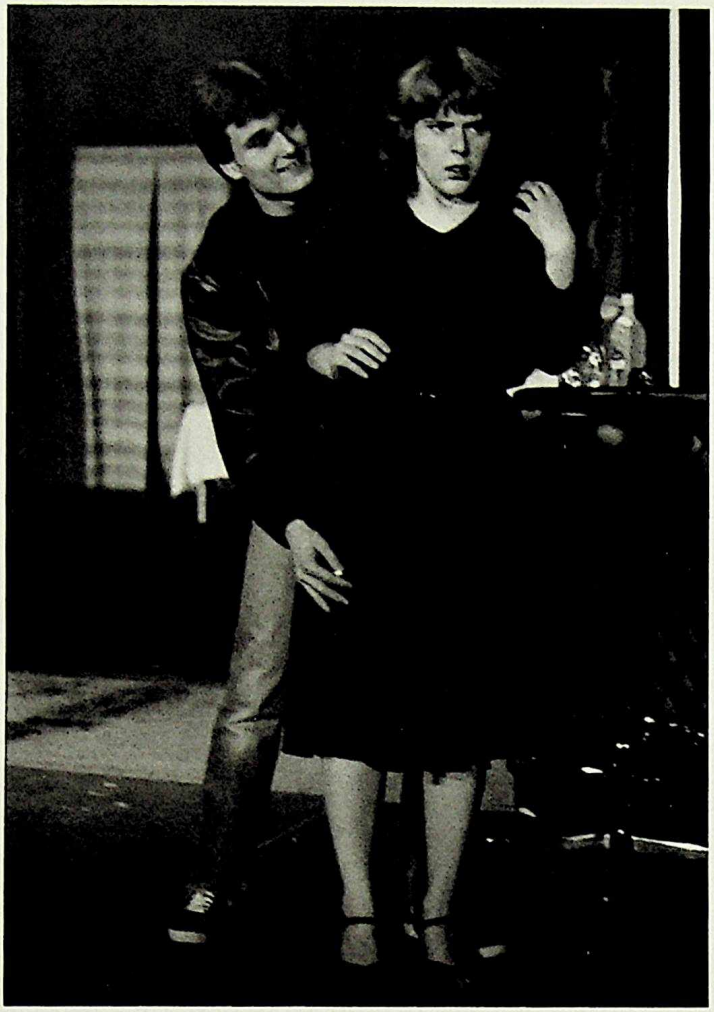

Picnic on the Battlefield is an absurdist play written by Fernando Arrabal. Placed in 1937, during the Spanish Civil War, the play revolves around the equality of all the people involved in the war. The cast consisted of Mike Hedden, Jeff Marsh, Todd Wasylyshyn, Lisa Duncan, Blair Lowe, and Colleen Palko. The production was directed and designed by Colleen Palko.

All on Her Own

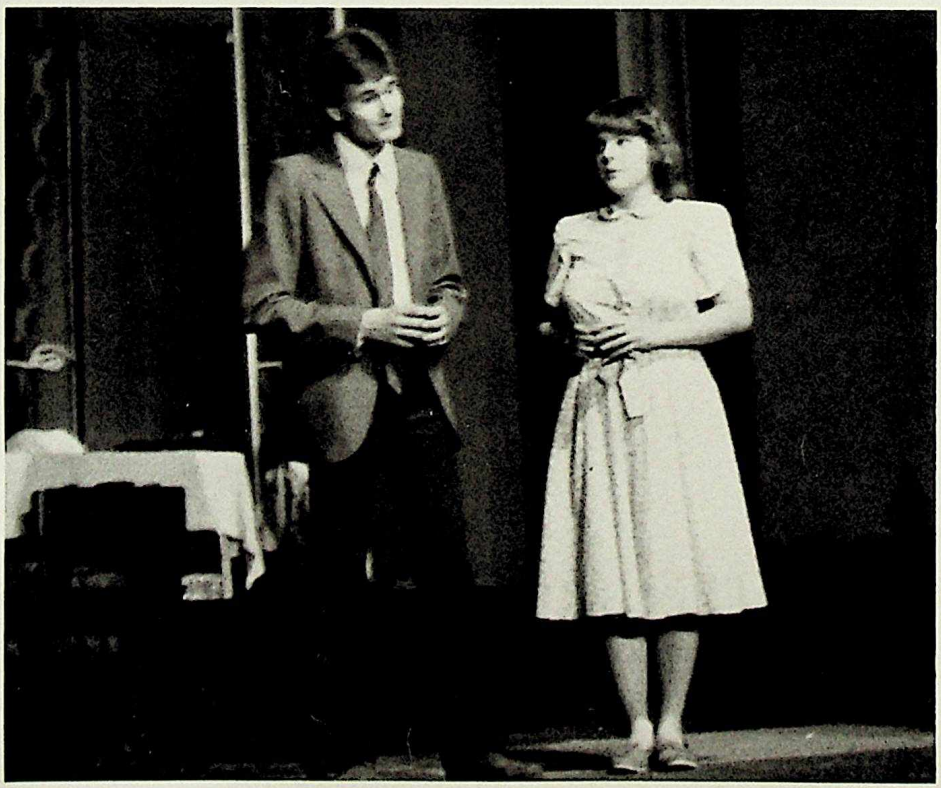

By Terrence Rattigon
Acted by Chris Fredrickson, all directed by Marnie Boucher.

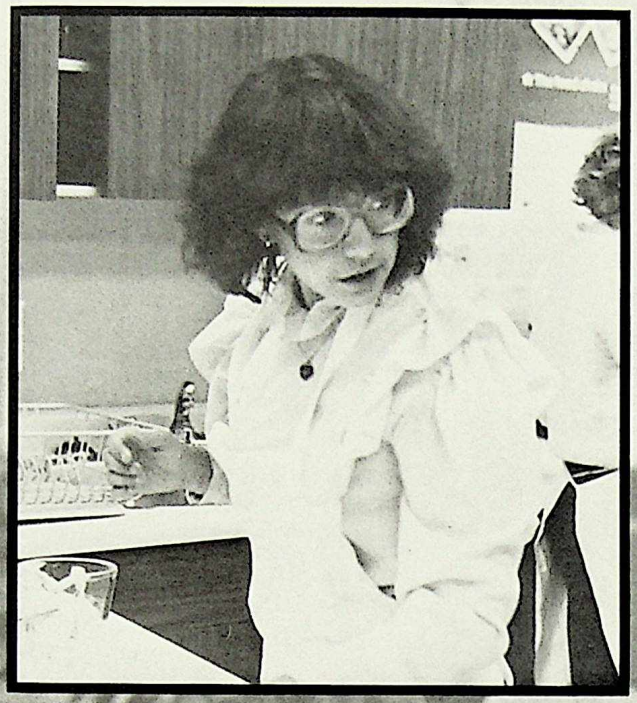

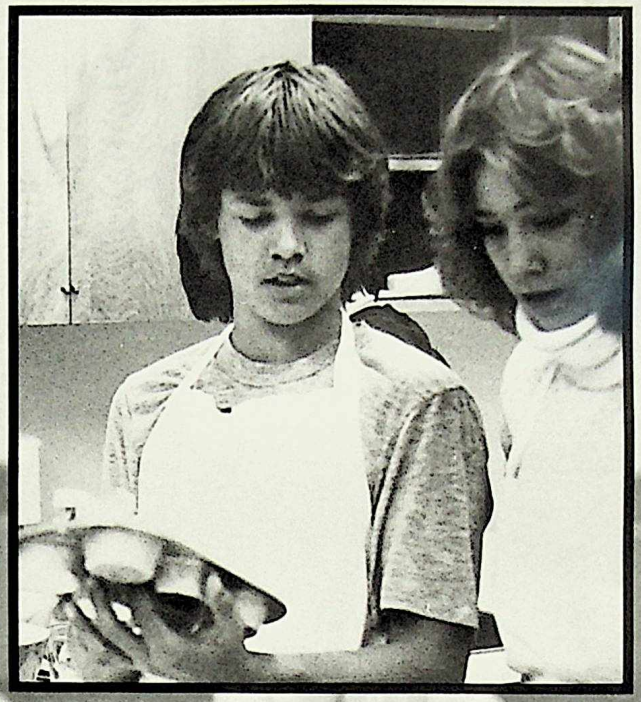

The Lover

By Harold Pinter and starring Troy O'Donnell, Laura Skidmore, and Andrew Dolha was a huge commercial success. The play involves a married couple who add variety to their lives by using their imaginations. Directed by James Anderson, this delightful little comedy was 'loved' by all who saw it.

President's Message

Life is like a book. When you're born, it's just a bunch of empty pages - pages which are waiting to be written. Your years of education take care of twelve chapters. Now for some, those can be twelve of the most tedious chapters of reading. However, at chapter ten, a dynamic character known as Harry Ainlay enters into the plot.

Harry Ainlay is a fascinating institution which adds excitement to your book. Where else is it possible to find such a vast array of programs to indulge in? It's not unlikely to find yourself at a swim team practice at 6:00 am, developing a new program in the computer room at lunch, and then rehearsing with the stage band after school. This is just one example of the many extracurricular programs Ainlay has to offer - and that's in addition to the five regular 64 - minute classes per day. School is no longer 320 minutes of full learning. It's 8, 10, or 12 hours of dedication, hardwork, and enjoyment.

I sincerely hope the S.U. Executive has helped fill the most recent chapter with some exciting and memorable escapades, as well. We attempted to "liven up" the day with various special events and functions such as political forum, the 16 hour dance marathon, the pancake brekkie, Valentine roses, I.S. movies, the rotunda and gym dances, and of course ... Air Guitar '83!

But wait! Let's not overlook the contributions you, the students, made to the chapter. Harry Ainlay raised over $3800 for Santas Anonymous and $500 for the Christmas Bureau. More importantly though, you gave part of yourself to those around you. It is the most important part of any chapter - love and friendship.

All of us have a major task set before us: And it is to fill in the remaining blank pages. Some of us have already finished the 12th chapter and others still have those pages to fill. One thing is for certain, though. Once a particular chapter is finished, you can't go back and rewrite it - not in this book. But you can go back and remember all the good times and experiences you encountered. No matter what chapter you're at in life, make it special and fill it with many everlasting memories.

Thank you for filling my pages with fond memories.

Until we meet again in later chapters,

Jay Flye

Titan Tradition

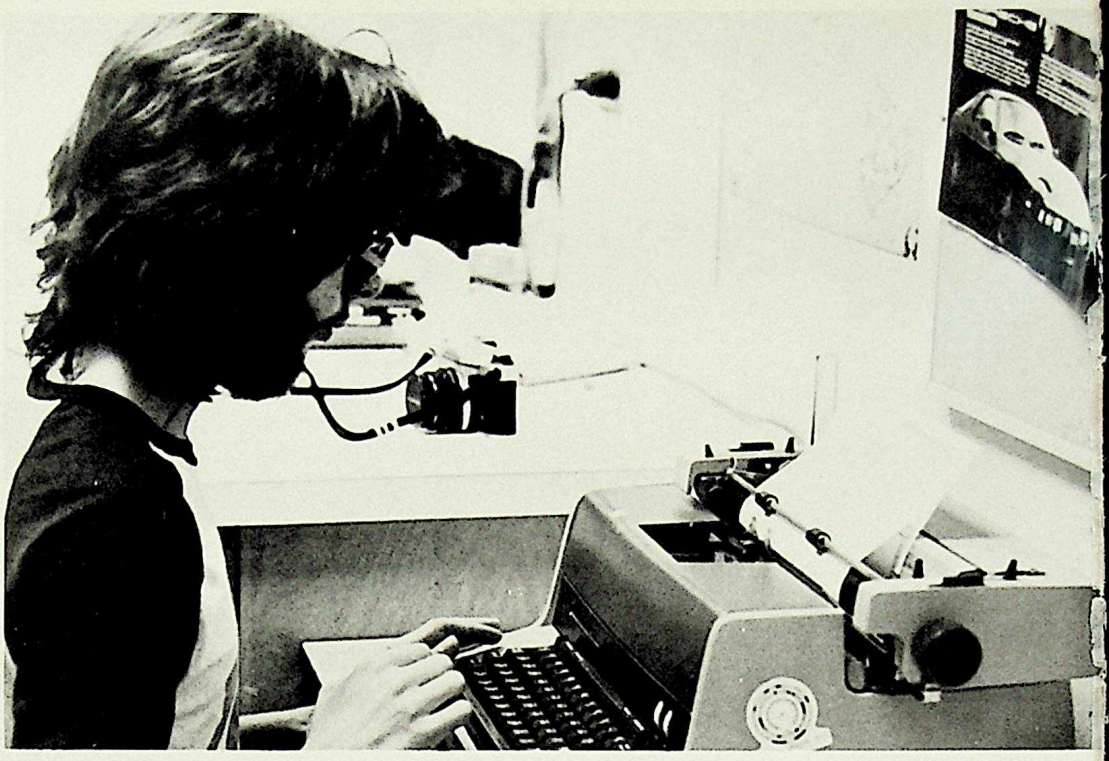

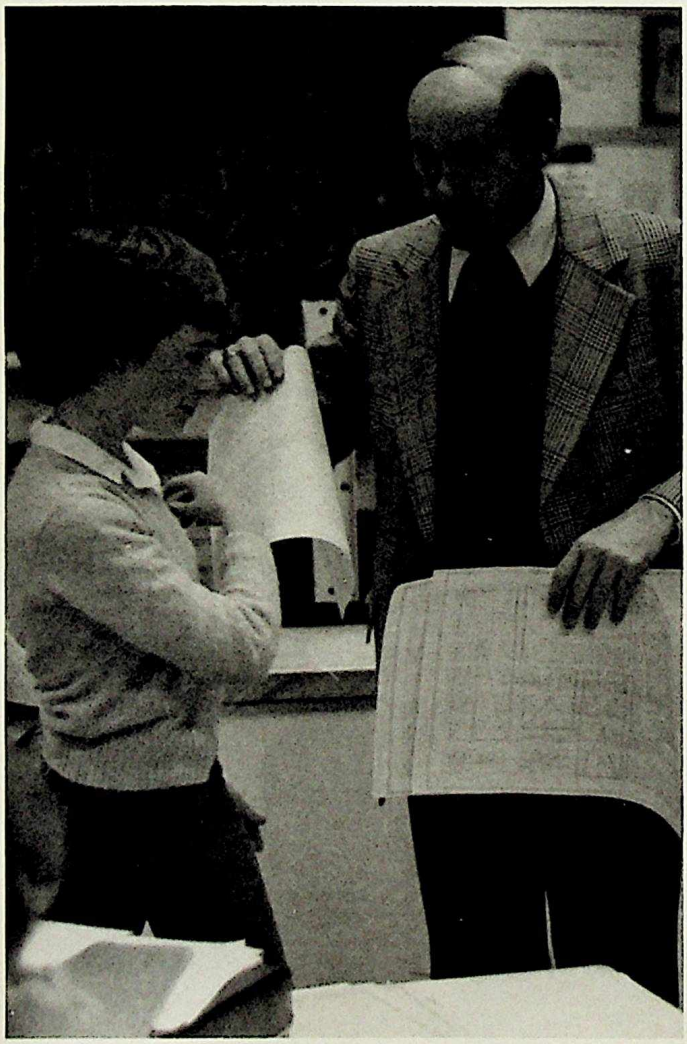

Well, it was another year of hard work but something was different about this year. This was the year in which we broke the tradition of not meeting deadlines. Believe it or not, we have met all of our deadlines this year. This is also the last year that our expert photographers (Murray, Brad, Doug and Anthony) will be taking pictures and printing them for Titan Tradition. However, we have met some new photographers who will soon take their place and continue to produce excellent quality photos. Again, this year, Mr. Broom did a lot of work in the yearbook office for us. However, Mr. Typewriter is slowly dying due to the excessive use of him from the staff last year, so we had to retire him. We are happy to introduce a new member to our staff, Mr. Lighttable, who is also extremely important. Without him, our book would not have been possible this year. Although the year was not quite as we have expected it to be, it was still a very memorable and rewarding year for all of us. We're sure that no one will ever forget the long hard hours spent on designing layouts, typing copy, printing photos, going after sponsors and coaches for names and playing dungeons and dragons in the yearbook office. In case you hadn't noticed, our theme is titled "Inside Looking". Thanks are extended to all those who helped us put this book together. Special thanks are extended to Mr. Mathew, who had to live through all our complaining by himself this year. We hope that this is a year for breaking an old tradition and starting a new one -- Meeting Deadlines!

Titanic

Despite the fact that the crew kept jumping overboard, the Titanic managed to steer clear of the icebergs for the first time ever this year. Going through three captains during the first month, and various co-captains who walked the plank, the Titanic finally managed to find a crew who could have the stormy weather.

The Titanic, in hopes of increasing distribution, made 3 major layout changes and many coverage changes this year. The ten issues published this year covered Ainlay sports, clubs, S.U., grad and activities as well as news, viewpoints expressed in letters, comics, entertainment such as fashion and quizzes and a monthly editorial. Another activity of the Titanic includes an exchange of papers between our Titanic editor, K.C., and the Stony Plain Torch editor, L.B. This proved beneficial to both papers.

Thanks to Mr. Fahlman, Mr. Klassen, Mrs. Hajek as well as the Janitorial staff. Thanks also to K.M. who installed a "stereo" system, T.M. for providing the lyrics, not to mention comedy, and the rest of the crew for causing a ten month party.

SITTING: Yih Bin Lau, Gordana Stojanic, Kathy Chrzanowski, Editor; Theresa Mah, Karen Itterman.

February 1983 brought the tenth anniversary of the Tri-Prov Basketball Tournament to our school. Due to the enormous amount of time spent by students and staff, Tri-Prov '83 was a huge success! This year's tournament was bigger and better than ever, with 20 teams involved in senior boys, senior girls and junior boys competing. The final games were very exciting, having the Father Lacombe Lasers emerging as the senior boys' champions. The Grande Prairie Ceinahs claimed the senior girls' title, and the Palmer Griffins from B.C. won the junior boys' draw.

Ping-Pong Club

Serves, spins, smashes and fun are the main ingredients of the Ping-Pong Club. Among the doldrums of school, there can be found all kinds of students enjoying themselves and relaxing from their hectic schedule by playing ping-pong everyday during lunch and after school. Our sponsor, Mrs. Mullen is to be thanked for total dedication and lasting patience. In March, the annual Ping-Pong tournament began with Mike Lam taking the single's title in a close match against Alfred Amenu-Tekoa. The tournament was a tremendous success with 32 players and plenty of competition. Hopefully, next year the grade 10's and 11's will continue in the tradition of the Ping-Pong Club.

Quebec Exchange

During Spring Break 25 students from Quebec came to Edmonton. They stayed with 26 students from Ainlay. While here the students saw Banff, Fort Edmonton, The Esso Refinery, Rundle Park and many more. In May, The Ainlay students went to Quebec and saw such things as the maple sugar industry, the bicycle industry, Thetford Mines and Quebec City. Tears were abundant at both airport departures!

AINLAY PARTICIPANTS: Jack Bauer, Jonathan Bellow, Anu Bhardwaj, Diana Coambs, Kim Davis, Alison Douglas, Robyn DuPlessis, Shirley Gaylard, Doug Hajek, Ann Heike, Lucy Jarratt, Aleem Khalig, Sherri Knox, Monica Lange, Michelle Lockhart, Ian Marsland, Jeffrey Mehr, Michelle Micko, Kate Miner, Lynn Nawata, Karen Ramsey, Sarah Reiffenstein, Frank Rodier, Sonya Saunders, Chris Voice, Kirsten Wiebe.

Valedictorian
Anola Kutash

Honored guests, Platform members, Fellow graduates:

Today, as we, the graduating class of 1983 reminisce, we recall that the successful completion of high school has always held special significance. Today we receive our diplomas - a key that will open the door to a different, exciting and challenging new stage in our lives.

The security of high school will be gone forever. Gone will be the loving care of Mr. Stolee running red-faced into the rotunda, swinging his cow bell to call us to class - and the well-meaning, respectable threats of teachers to hand in our assignments. We will be left in the world alone with our own initiative, our quadratic formulas, historical dates and rules for proper grammar. On this we must rely to find our success.

But let us keep in mind that success does not mean constant recognition in outstanding achievements, but rather, in the words of Ralph Waldo Emerson:

> To laugh often and be loved much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the approval of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to give one's self; to leave the world a bit better; to have played and laughed with enthusiasm and sung with exultation; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived - This is to have succeeded.

High school, more than any other time of our formal education, has served to prepare us for the upcoming years - to the pursuit of our goals and dreams. It has developed our characters, emphasized our strengths and talents, and matured our independence and self-reliance. As we prepare to leave this school, we will leave behind us many happy memories: friends who have shared our joys and sorrows and to whom we have revealed our hidden dreams, teachers who have encouraged us to grow.

Certainly however, high school has not been easy and enjoyable. For example, it has been a time of struggle, late night homework assignments, typing until our fingers molded into place - hundreds of pages of Social Studies essays, five minute cramming sessions, and falling out of bed at six o'clock in the morning to attend early track or music practices.

We would not have made it through these past few years without the help of others! Where would we be without our concerned parents who shut off the hockey game on the TV screen so we would complete our English assignments or the Slevinskies and Sprysaks of the teaching staff whose humor has helped us to survive the monotony of our classes? Where would we be?

On behalf of the graduating class of 1983, I would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere gratitude towards both the parents and the teachers for their guidance, support and most importantly their love.

Fellow graduates the foundation of our future has been set. Now, we must build our dreams remembering that:

> "It is in dreaming the highest dreams ...
> Seeking the highest goals ...
> That we build our brightest tomorrows."

Class of 1983, may success and happiness be yours in all your future endeavours.

CLASS HISTORIAN SPEECH

Mr. Chairman, Honored Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen, Fellow Grads:

So we finally made it! Here we are finishing school - an end and a new beginning. We've gone through those endless hours of painstaking homework, faced all those Monday mornings, filled out numerous late slips and miraculously survived. Now we can truly say, "High school has been the best 3, 4 or 5 years of our lives!"

Let's look back. Remember the beginning - September 1980 (3, 4 or 5 years ago) when we swaggered into Harry Ainlay, Grade 10's, rulers of our respective Junior High Schools? We were soon set straight on the total value of our existence! Our egos sagged like soggy bacon. There we were surrounded by a group of massive grade 12's - 600 of them - each brandishing a can of "Gilette Extra Foamy" with evil content. I mean we were shaving, but that much Extra Foamy?!

Oh yes, grade 10 was a "scary" experience. We hid in corners clutching our maps in our sweaty little hands, as if they were lifelines. When the coast was clear, we tore down the halls in search of our next class. Aha, we made it. Late, but unfortunately, wrong room! Locked in with 30 savage grade 12's! And a sympathetic teacher saying something comforting like "Are you lost?" (or was it "Get lost"). And we'd been told the school motto is "We care!" Demoralized, we'd shoot out of that door as fast as our shaky little legs would go.

Not only did our classrooms keep eluding us, but do you remember how the office, the cafeteria, the theater, and the library changed sides every time we got brave enough to venture into the rotunda. As if to say "Hey you, you don't belong!"

But we learned to take note of all the important things vital to our survival at Harry Ainlay. For instance: water fountains (all that running!), exits, especially exit 11 and of course, washrooms - "So close and yet so far!"

We also finally noticed the P.A. system, and words of frightening reality: "All right, my little p-p-porklets, s-s-someone's been s-s-stealing t-t-toilet paper! This has got t-t-to s-s-stop! S-s-so, whoever the t-t-turkey was, I want to see you r-r-right now!" It was some beginning all right.

Even sub-humans need a place to lick their wounds, to release frustrations. We discovered the cafeteria, where we learned two things:

1) Cafeteria food can be survived.

2) French fries fly the best (especially with ketchup: 50 feet across the room).

What a blast! - and that's what we got too, a blast from the man with the voice. Then, just as we began to know our way around, it ended, grade 10 was over.

September 1981. Amazing that we had, most of us survived somehow. So began Grade 11, the year to live it up! We knew our way around and had time to see school in a whole new light. Classes? Late Slips? Homework? - Get serious, communication was in! Remember - "How's it goin', eh? Take off eh? The topic for today is ..."? People thought we were weird, but hey "Why be normal?". Then later on, we moved to a more elevated form of communication: "Hey, like, like that's totally awesome, like gag me with a spoon, like was that ever choice".

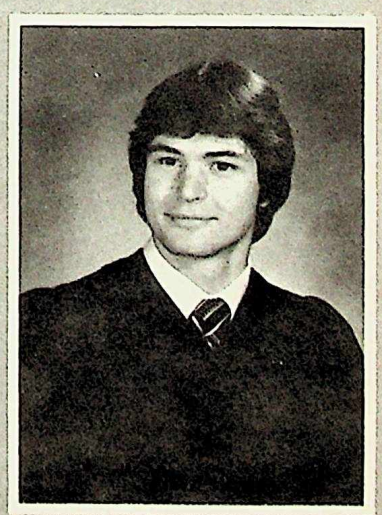

With our newly acquired social awareness, we also began to notice the many arts Harry Ainlay had to offer: Drama, Music, Ind. Arts and Athletics. We also began to make our mark on the school (those heavy black sealed boots really did make a mark!)

And who can forget the Ainlay 500! Unlike the Indy 500, this event was held indoors, and the track was only 500 metres long. The one contestant who took part had a real problem shifting gears, until he went by the office and then it was "Go for the Gusto!".

Gusto? - Gusto? Na, it was September 1982 and we were in grade 12. Strange that we had never realized how sophisticated we really were. We were beyond primitive phrases such as "gusto" or "Man, are you ever ugly!" Rather it was "I will beat thee into handsomeness, thou galled prune." or we'd question ourselves, "Is there a method in this madness?!" We also noticed little people scurrying about clutching maps.

Then, reality appeared - uglier than dread voices over the P.A. - in the form of Physics, Biology, Chemistry, Social Studies, and Math. Remember the problems in math? Questions changed from "8 x 8 = 64" to "What is the second derivative of $9/2x^4 - 6x^3y + 3.42xy^2$", and the comments on our exams: "This exam is a good indication of your LEARNING abilities". But we were Grade 12's, seniors, so we could retort: "This mark is a good indication of your TEACHING abilities!" Then there was the unresolved question - "Can anyone pass English 30?!"

But we had good times too, out of class. Who could ever forget Tri-Prov '83, and that word that rang through the rafters - "Bogus!" Or what about the annual Harry Ainlay Grad Fashion Show, where along with the newest fashions, there was also displayed the latest line in "pale pink skin" (thanks to Mike and Pat). We also saw the Harry Ainlay Senior Football Team finally win the city championship!

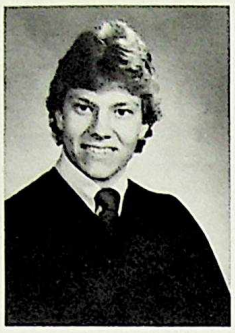

The weather was great and our musical taste ranged somewhere between Da-Da-Da and Eye of the Tiger. We learned that ET went home, and we saw the final episode of your favorite and mine - "M-A-S-H".

And suddenly it's nearly over. Grade 12 is coming to an end, and we're ready now for a new beginning. But our beginning rests upon the past and the present. On our teachers, or friends, and our parents, especially when they listened to us, supported us, and encouraged us in the toughest of times. So Mom and Dad, thank you for being there!

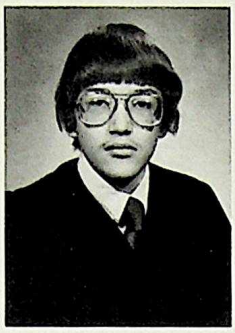

We must also never forget the friends we've made and the friends we've lost. Life is empty without friends. So as we go our different ways, let's keep in touch and never forget the good times and the memories.

Now as the class of '83 comes to a close, it is time for us to pursue our dreams and remember -

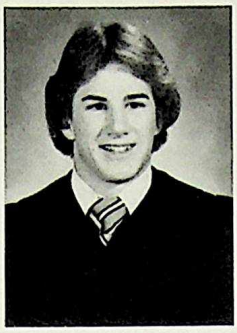

"WE'VE ONLY JUST BEGUN".
